

2023 Collegiate Academic Award Honorees Announced

June 22, 2023 - The United States Fencing Coaches Association is pleased to announce the 2023 slate of NCAA Fencing Academic awards. The USFCA recognizes the individual student-athletes and teams on the basis of their combined Fall and Spring semester GPAs (or Fall and Winter quarter GPAs).

The USFCA All-Academic Team includes 558 student-athletes with 360 receiving recognition as Scholars of Distinction. All-Academic Team honors are presented to those student-athletes at member institutions who had an in-season GPA of 3.3 or higher. Scholar of Distinction honors are presented to those student-athletes at member institutions who had an in-season GPA of 3.7 or higher.

Among men's teams, Stevens Institute of Technology led the nation with twenty-one All-Academic Team selections. New York University followed closely with nineteen All-Academic Team selections. Vassar College and Stevens Institute of Technology led the nation with fourteen Scholars of Distinction. Columbia University followed closely with thirteen Scholars of Distinction.

Among women's teams, University of Notre Dame led the nation with twenty-five All-Academic Team selections. Columbia University followed closely with twenty-three All-Academic Team selections. Vassar College led the nation with seventeen Scholars of Distinction. Columbia University and Northwestern University followed closely with sixteen Scholars of Distinction.

Twenty-two women's teams and thirteen men's teams received All-Academic recognition for their combined in-season team GPA. Brown University received the Women's Scholar Team of the Year Award with an USFCA-best team GPA of 3.85, just ahead of Harvard University with a 3.817 GPA and Vassar College with a 3.78 GPA. Vassar College received the Men's Scholar

Team of the Year Award with an USFCA-best team GPA of 3.62, just ahead of Harvard University with a 3.582 GPA and Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a 3.58 GPA.
